Designed to take game at extended range, the Ox Firearms Sniper rifle has all the necessary bells and whistles without the added weight. Chambered in 6.5 Grendel or .223 Wylde, it is ideal for taking small-to-medium-sized game at long distances.

If you enjoy long-range hunting, you know the feeling of having to carry your heavy precision rifle over rough terrain to your designated hide-out spot. The added weight of optics and accessories increases the additional fatigue. However, with the Sniper, you no longer need to sacrifice added weight for precision.

The Sniper features our lightweight nickel-plated receiver set that is known for its functional, yet striking, design. The 20" BSF carbon-fiber jacketed barrel allows the rifle to remain cool due to the barrel's rapid heat-dissipating technology when taking those highly precise shots. Furniture includes the highly respected Lancer carbon fiber handguard with an attached bipod, as well as the Luth-AR buttstock with an attached monopod for prone shooting.

The Sniper rifle features the same black nickel finish that is used on our other rifles. This cutting-edge plating is far superior to the typical anodizing that is the industry standard. The black nickel finish has an incredibly low coefficient of friction. This decreases the amount of energy needed to cycle the bolt carrier group, even with little-to-no lubrication. In addition to this, black nickel also has non-stick properties that shed dirt and carbon unlike any other surface treatment available. Cleaning is as easy as simply wiping the receiver down.
